

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

You know, I doubt if there is another state in the union that offers such contrasts and such a wide variety of unusual attractions as does Florida. One need not go beyond the borders of the state to find scenery, vegetation, activities and topography of such a distinctly different character and flavor as to equal in most every respect a visit to some far away land or section of the country.

Consider the striking contrast between "boom"-built modern cities of Miami and Ft. Lauderdale.

Compare the Gulf Coastal highway with its palisades above beautiful Pensacola bay, its rising sand dunes, its red clay pinelands hills, of the flat sandy beaches of the lower East Coast—yet both areas have distinctive charms and advantages.

The resident of Key West seeking a complete change of scenery need not journey to some distant state. He will find it in the scenic highlands of Polk, Lake Highlands or Pasco counties, or in the older settled areas of West Florida where quiet prosperous farming communities nestle contentedly amid limitless forest areas and high banked dry chalked rivers.

Visitors who live west of the Suwannee will find a wonderful vacation, anywhere, to compare with it. And each trip I take seems more enjoyable. I'm continually finding new and interesting things and learning something about my state that I never knew before. Each town, city or coast road is interesting. Roads for the most part are good and if you are not in too much of a hurry the beauty and charms of the ever changing countryside will enchant you.

Try Florida for your vacation, whenever you take it in a lump or piecemeal, and you will not be disappointed.

It is funny how so many women, when starting on a trip, worry over how awful it would have been if they had forgotten to bring something, and you will not be disappointed.

Let's start on a trip, worry over how awful it would have been if they had forgotten to bring something, and you will not be disappointed.

"Where Everglades Folks Buy Hardware in Belle Glade"

Those from interior Florida tiring of lakes and hills or vast prairie will find plenty to interest and entertain them with complete change of atmosphere and scenery at the beaches of either east or west coast, and with the same scale they employ to capture the elusive black bass in their familiar lakes and streams they can have a world of sport with a variety of game salt water fish that leap to the spoon or plug in ocean pass or gulf inlet salt water trout, snook, red fish, bay fish, mullet, jacks and others.

Country folks whose daily lives are confined in an orbit of the small farming community will find the contrast and thrill they need by visiting such metropolitan cities as Jacksonville, Miami or Tampa, where comfortable accommodations are available at modest rates and modern stores, theaters, night clubs and bright light will never be broken the monotony.

Those whose daily life is confined to a stuffy office in the city will find the forests and streams, the beaches and bay heads, the open prairie, the rolling hills and lakes, the hunting, fishing, hiking or swimming available from Jacksonville to Monroe in one form or another, a delightful change from the humdrum of hot pavement and city bustle.

Florida is indeed a true vacationland, not only for countless millions from other states but for their own year-round residents as well. With the exception of tourists, she offers all and more than can be found anywhere else in the world. William Cullen Bryant, "She speaks a various language" and is prepared to meet your mood whatever it may be.

Take no drink or eat vacation for a given period this summer.

But "The Masses" were not so foolish, after all!

Less loudly now, you may still hear an occasional agitator blasting away at the American system of business—which depends on big factories, big networks of dealers, trade-marked goods, heavy advertising, and low prices.

Agitators complained for years that "the masses" were injured by this system, and that we'd all be richer if we went back to the old cracker-barrel days.

But in spite of the complaints, little factories, which had made double goods, grew big factories. It has insisted on having trade-marked goods which their customers could recognize. And the heavy advertising helped to give us our modern newspaper, magazines and radio.

Who built this system? The masses built it, by insisting on crackers they could recognize in the package, on automobiles, soup, soups, chewing gum, cigarettes, and all other articles that carried well-known trade names.

So the agitators have had to pipe down. They have discovered that "the masses" were not so easy to lead astray after all.

Beck Is Speaker

Herbert B. Beck, Belle Glade, a member of the state legislature, was a recent speaker before the Lake Worth Lions club. In his address Representative Beck advocated a voters league for Palm Beach county. He pointed out that such an organization could inform staff of the county of the people of the county and advise the county's representatives in Tallahassee. The voters league was started in the spring of 1939, and Beck is now soliciting petitioners to Tallahassee during the session of the legislature. He pointed out that many people would not be a petition without reading it, thus creating the impression upon the county's representatives that a certain bill met with the approval of voters, when, in fact, only a handful would be signing its passage.
